

Sales and Profit by Category and Sub-Category

Conclusion: High sales do not always equal high profit, as some top-selling sub-categories may have thin margins.

Quantity and Profit by Sub-Category

Conclusion: High-volume items are not necessarily the most profitable, revealing a disconnect between sales volume and actual earnings.

Top 10 Products Based on Sales

Conclusion: A small group of products drives the majority of total revenue and requires priority focus.

Sales by Region and Market

Conclusion: Sales performance varies significantly across regions, with some markets far outperforming others.

Profit by Category and Region

Category	Canada	Caribbean	Central Africa	Central America	Central US	Eastern A
Furniture		3,153.92	3,042.18	5,904.96	161.74	1,46
Office Supplies	213.72	1,692.08	586.98	3,300.02	5,609.39	1,10
Technology		617.82	6,039.06	12,536.97	-95.11	1,74
Total	213.72	5,463.82	9,668.22	21,741.95	5,676.02	4,30

Concluision:Profitability is uneven across regions and categories, indicating the need for localized product strategies.

Top 10 States Based on Sales

Concluision: Revenue is concentrated in a few key states, posing a risk if those markets decline.

Sales and Quantity by Customer Segment

Conclusion:Different customer segments show distinct patterns, with some generating higher value and others higher volume.

Relationship Between Discount and Profit

Concluision:Higher discounts strongly correlate with lower or negative profits, suggesting current discounting is hurting margins.

Sales by Category for Each Ship Mode

Concluision: Premium product categories tend to use faster shipping modes, while bulkier items rely on standard shipping.

Shipping Cost by Region and Ship Mode

Conclusion:Shipping costs vary widely by region and mode, with expedited shipping being significantly more expensive in certain areas.